

Photoshop

As promised here is the winning image in the recent portrait shoot.

This image is from Ann Grant and features a dog portrait and I know how difficult it can be to photograph these animals so well done Ann.

The Data taken from the Image is: Apple Ipad at 1/100 sec at f2.4 at 32 iso and most importantly, there was no flash used.

You will notice the black colour around the dogs face and eyes has not been lost. If it was still there it would look different if the use of flash was allowed.

You can see on the metadata when Anne worked on this image and the version of photoshop she used.

I had equally good images to view as well but there was no metadata with the image which put these images into question.

About the play:

Bernard plans a romantic weekend with his chic Parisian mistress in his charming converted French farmhouse while his wife, Jacqueline, is away. He's arranged for a cordon bleu cook to prepare gourmet delights and has invited his best friend Robert, too, to provide the alibi.

It's foolproof, what could possibly go wrong?

Well... Suppose Robert turns up not realising quite why he has been invited. Suppose Robert and Jacqueline are secret lovers, and consequently decide that Jacqueline will not leave for the weekend. Then, suppose that the cook must pretend to be the mistress and the mistress is unable to cook.

When everyone's alibi gets confused with everyone else's, an evening of hilarious confusion ensues as Bernard and Robert improvise at breakneck speed.
